Court Will Have New Deal Tinge For Two Decades

Murphy Nomination Gives Roosevelt's Appointees Majority Hold, Barring Deaths

He Lauds Wisdom

Murphy Himself Says U. S. Will Watch and Receive Benefits of Wisdom

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—Elevation of Frank Murphy to the Supreme Court will give Roosevelt appointees majority control of the national for possibly two decades, ending deaths, resignations or recalls.

Nomination of the 46-year-old attorney general yesterday as Mr. Roosevelt's fifth appointee on the nine-man court may well imprint "New Deal" hallmark on its decisions for many years after the president's own retirement from office.

In discussing Mr. Roosevelt's low court appointments, Murphy said yesterday that "for the country will watch the work and receive the benefits of wisdom of these men of learning and integrity."

Senate comment indicated that Murphy would be confirmed promptly but he may not take his oath for a month, in order to clean his work in the justice department.

He will be the second youngest member of the court. The oldest Roosevelt appointee is Felix Frankfurter, 57, who would serve years more if he remains until as old as Chief Justice Charles McReynolds.

Douglas Is Youngest
The youngest is William O. Douglas, 41. Should he remain the bench only until reaching average age of the four non-Roosevelt appointees, he would be serving 30 years from now.

Esides comparative youth, Murphy shares with three other Roosevelt appointees a background of government service. He has been mayor of Detroit, commissioner of the Philippines, and governor of Michigan and attorney general.

On the bench he will join two predecessors as attorney general—Justices McReynolds and Hughes.

Justice McReynolds, 64, is a bachelor. Where McReynolds is outspoken and somewhat abrupt, Murphy follows a more reserved, "speak softly, hit hard."

Chief Justice Hughes, 64, is a churchman. Hughes, a Baptist, Murphy a devout Catholic, once called a "lay pope" by the late Cardinal Cullen.

In the last 30 years, he has 15 times a Bible his mother gave him, a Bible so worn that it is kept rolled in a towel.

Will Quit Politics
Although he enjoyed stumping countryside in his campaigns, Murphy said yesterday that he would give up politics after joining the court.

New Justice and Successor

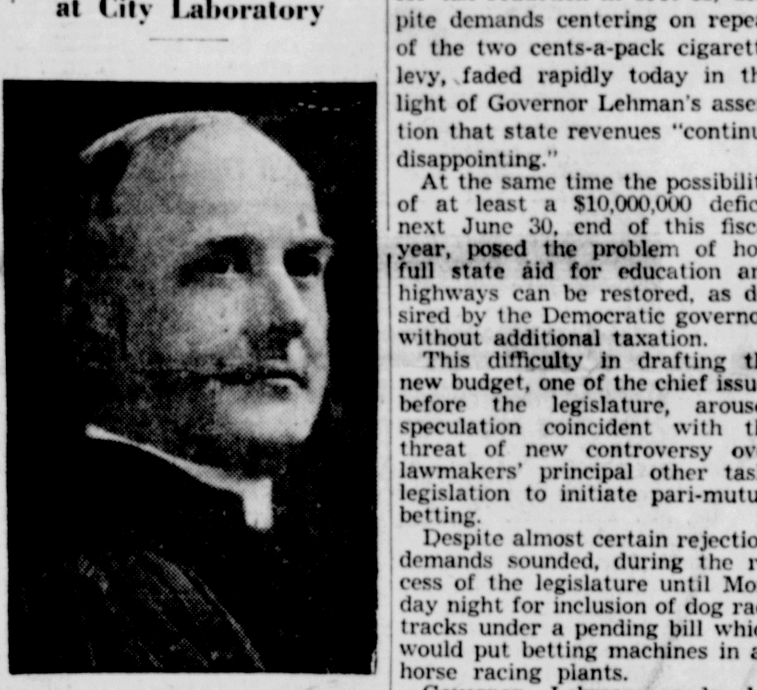

Frank Murphy, (left) former Governor of Michigan and one time high commissioner to the Philippines, will desert his post of attorney general in favor of a seat on the Supreme Court of the United States. His successor will be Robert H. Jackson, (right) hitherto solicitor general. President Roosevelt announced Murphy's nomination and Jackson's new appointment on the second day of the new congressional session.

Congress to Blast Power for F.D.R. To 'Grab' Plants

President Won't Have Easy Time Getting O. K. for Commandeering Sites for Naval Program

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—A blast of criticism indicated today that the navy's recommendation to give the President peacetime emergency power to commandeer factories for naval construction faced formidable opposition in Congress.

Even long-time supporters of the administration, such as Senator Minton of Indiana, the Democratic whip, joined in bi-partisan opposition to the proposal, made by Secretary Edison in a letter to Speaker Bankhead.

The proposal, which would broaden the powers now delegated to the President only in wartime, was being widely discussed as the administration pushed ahead with its defense program.

Detailing major plans for the next 18 months, the navy and navy disclosed intention of strengthening materially their fortifications in the Pacific area.

The war department announced at the same time that all four field armies, made up of regular army and National Guard troops, would take part for the first time next summer in war games of at least three weeks' duration.

Edison Violation
Minton said he thought the Edison proposal "violated the spirit of a Democratic country," and declared:

"I know of no approaching emergency that would warrant such action."

Senator Borah (R., Idaho) said the proposal appeared "perfectly startling" to him. Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he intended to see that there was active opposition to the legislation if it was brought up in the Senate.

Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) said the House naval committee would consider the suggestion next month after the disposal of a pending naval construction bill.

Called to testify on this measure yesterday, Edison told reporters the emergency power request had been made as a routine matter because the navy felt that, as a matter of general preparedness, the President should have authority to facilitate naval construction in any critical period that might precede a war.

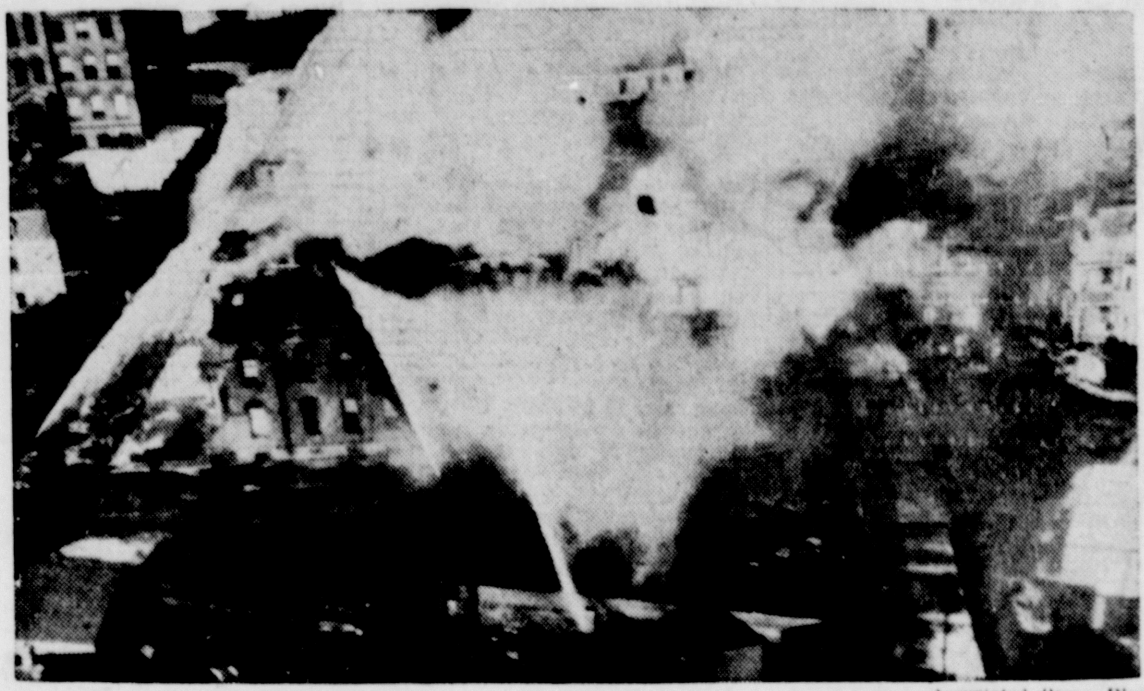

"No implication should be drawn from this that we fear any imminence of the United States being drawn into war, but we do feel that all of these things should be thought out," Edison said.

Pacific Move
In the Pacific an outstanding military move scheduled is the construction of a major army air base near Anchorage, Alaska. The base was one of six authorized in 1935, and the other have been started.

Alaska is the northern apex of a defense triangle touching Hawaii and the Panama Canal, for which the fleet and long range navy planes have the primary defense responsibility.

The navy proposed to proceed without delay in building up the air facilities of two key Pacific islands, Wake and Midway, in its long "line of observation" extending beyond the defense triangle.

400 Children Flee Providence School Fire

Flames, believed to have started in the boiler room, swept the 50-year-old Point Street grammar school in Providence, R. I., driving 400 pupils outside in frigid weather. A few were slightly hurt, but there were no fatalities. Firemen are shown in this aerial view directing streams of water on the three-story building.

More Than 100 Join Hunt In Mississippi for Negro

Meadville, Miss., Jan. 5 (AP)—More than 100 Mississippi farmers and 35 National Guardsmen today hunted a negro killer-suspect in the dense Homochitto National Forest near here.

Adjutant-General John A. O'Keefe, directed the guardsmen ordered out by Governor Hugh White, after fear was expressed that a mob might lynch the negro, known only as "Red," if he were captured.

Farmers from miles around joined in the hunt. They carried a variety of weapons, including shotguns, rifles and pistols.

"Red" and another negro named "Oklahoma" were sought for the killing last Monday night of Hillard Hall, 21, and the slight wounding of Constable Philip Shell and his brother, J. W. Shell.

A posse yesterday surprised "Red" in a cabin near Knoxville and fired at him as he fled to the woods. Some believed the negro was wounded.

Growers to Hold Sessions in City

State Horticulturists Will Meet at State Armory January 24 to 26

Many noted speakers from out of state will feature the annual meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society at the state armory, this city, January 24 to 26. Among these will be Major C. E. Chase, secretary of the Washington State Apple Commission, and Dr. F. A. Motz, European marketing specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

For several years Washington has levied a state tax of one cent a bushel on apples for advertising and promotion purposes. Major Chase has directed this work and has agreed to tell the New York growers just what it has accomplished. Doctor Motz spends most of his time in Europe and has the latest information on foreign markets and what they may offer in.

Chairman of House Ways and Means Committee Says He Had Idea in Mind Some Time

Harrison's Plan Requests 24-Member Group Study Budget, Taxes

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—Chairman Doughton (D., N. C.) of the House ways and means committee tentatively endorsed today the Harrison proposal that congress make up its own budget and tax program this session.

After a conference with President Roosevelt, who submitted his budget yesterday, Doughton said that for some time he had had in mind the same kind of fiscal study which Senator Harrison (D., Miss.), chairman of the Senate finance committee, advocated last night.

Harrison called for creation of a 24-member Senate-House committee to investigate budget and tax needs for two months while congress was concerned with other problems. His recommendation drew some qualified approval as well as strong opposition from other congressmen.

Doughton said at the White House that he thought there "should be close cooperation between the finance ways and means and appropriations committees" before their various financial measures are started through congress.

Asked whether he believed that appropriation bills should be delayed until the Harrison study had been completed, Doughton said that would be all right "if we could do it without prolonging the session too long."

"I don't think it should take long and it looks as if sixty days would be ample," he added.

Opposition Stirs

Washington, Jan. 5 (AP)—A Democratic "proposal that Congress work out its own federal budget and compare it with President Roosevelt's before voting any appropriations or new taxes stirred strong opposition and some qualified approval today among leading legislators.

Chairman Harrison (D.—Miss.), of the Senate finance committee, which handles tax legislation, advanced the novel suggestion for a 24-member Senate-House committee to study budget and tax needs for 60 days while Congress concerns itself with other measures.

House Democratic leaders gave the idea as cold a reception as they did when Secretary Morgenthau offered it last session. They objected particularly to the proposal that no appropriation bills be passed until the special joint committee reported.

The House appropriations committee has worked out a 14-week schedule providing for consideration on the floor of one measure a week. To abandon this would leave the House with nothing to do, its chiefs said.

Representative Taber of New York, senior Republican on the committee, said he would "come any study that would tend to show what the situation is," but added:

"I'm sure we could get along with considerably less than the $8,424,000,000 the President estimated was needed" for 1940-41.

A few Senators thought Harrison's idea sound, but said they did not believe that House would stop while the joint committee sat.

With both Houses in recess until Monday, Senate Republicans called a conference (at 11 a. m. EST) to go over Mr. Roosevelt's "bedrock" budget and his recommendation that new taxes be levied.

Lothian Says Germany Will Launch Drive Against Allies in Spring

Chicago, Jan. 5 (AP)—Germany probably will launch a "terrific" attack against England and France by land, sea and air this spring, Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, told the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations last night.

"If and when the attack comes," he added, "it will be with all the ferocity and ruthlessness the Nazis have taught us to expect."

The ambassador expressed the belief that the anticipated attack would be repelled and if repelled as decisively as was the big German offensive of 1918 "it will not be long before Hitlerism itself goes down to defeat."

Sub-Zero Cold Drives Eastward

Wave Is Coldest in Three Years in Some Areas

(By the Associated Press.)
A wedge of sub-zero weather, in some districts the coldest in three years, drove eastward from the plains states today (Friday), giving the weather map its oddest appearance of the season.

While the temperature in lower Michigan sank as far as an unofficial six below zero at Jackson, the weather in the north central part of the state was almost mild. Ludington, a Lake Michigan port, reported 23 above.

A light snow fell in part of Nebraska, where the temperatures ranged from 13 above to 21 below. Another weather contrast was presented in Kentucky, with the temperature ranging from 9 below zero in the west to 15 above in the east.

The frigid belt, extending early today from central Nebraska to Ohio, drove the mercury below zero for the first time since February 19, 1936. It was 4 below at 4 a. m., and downstate, at Decatur, 12 below was reported.

The cold wave in Ohio was the severest since 1936, with zero temperatures reported at Cincinnati and Toledo. It was 5 below at Napoleon—and the townfolk had to eat cold breakfasts after a gas feeder main cracked.

Underwriters Would Have Station Near Maiden Lane, Clinton Ave.; Defends Slashes

Photograph on Page 12

Experts of the National Board of Fire Underwriters have selected as the most desirable location for the proposed new fire house to house Wiltwyck and Excelsior Hose Companies a site as close as possible to the intersection of Clinton avenue and Maiden Lane, declared Mayor C. J. Heiselman, speaking at the banquet which was served following the annual meeting of Rapid Hose Company at the rooms on Hone street Thursday evening.

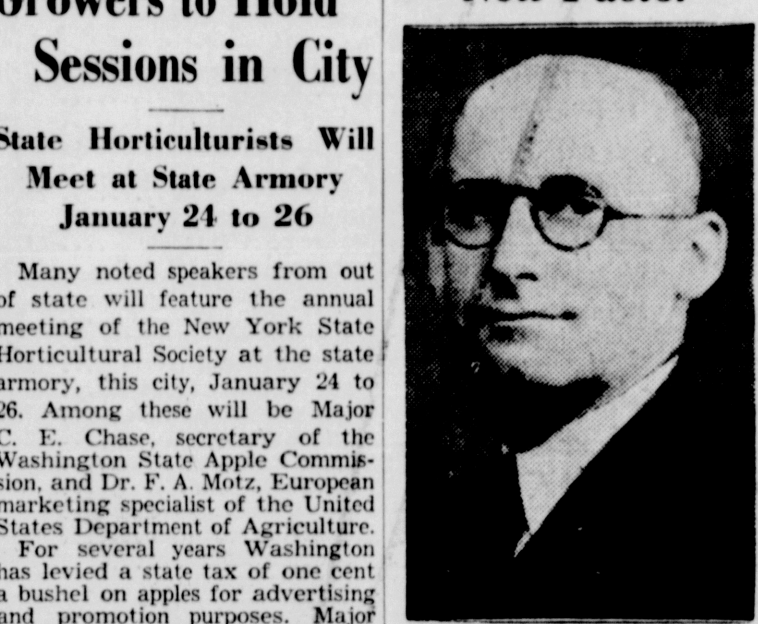

The mayor also defended slashes he had made in the city's tax budget and emphasized the fact that unless relief costs dropped during the present year it would be necessary to slash budget appropriations again in 1941.

The city's tax rate should be kept around $40, said the mayor, for the taxpayers cannot afford to pay more. He said that since he had been mayor of the city he had always tried to keep the tax rate below the $40 level. Mayor Heiselman said that the voters of Kingston had elected him because he had given the city sound government.

Exchange Shows Fewer Transfers

Activity on the Stock Exchange lessened Thursday, volume dropping to 860,000 shares against 1,020,000 the day before and prices eased off slightly. Opinion seems to be that the President's message had little if any effect in Wall Street, one of the reasons being that the question as to just how much real economy actually will be practiced in the future and that the final figures will depend largely upon the attitude of congress toward appropriations in the various categories. One writer sums it up thusly: "President Roosevelt's latest budget message is a notable document in this respect, the conservatives will find considerable comfort in the figures and the radicals will find considerable comfort in the words."

Industrials lost 37 point Thursday, to close at 152.43 in the Dow Jones averages and utilities last 10 point, to 26.35. Rails showed a gain of .01, to 32.67. Although electric output for the last week of 1939 showed a drop from the peak marks made in the preceding weeks, the total still was 13.4 per cent over the same week in 1938.

Delaware & Hudson has placed an order with American Locomotive Co. for 20 high-speed locomotives, to cost some $4,000,000. It is the road's first important purchase since 1918. Pennsylvania has ordered 50,000 tons of steel rail for early delivery.

Will Colonize Ethiopia

Rome, Jan. 5 (AP)—Italians removed from Tunisia and Corsica during tension of the past year between Italy and France will be employed to colonize Ethiopia, it was announced today.

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Scattered stocks moved ahead in today's market, but the majority of leaders, after a half-hearted rallying attempt at the start, backed into minus territory.

Offerings were light after a moderately active opening. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 300,000 shares. Steels gave ground near the final hour and several others, on top at one time, slipped.

A number of utility preferred issues put on a relatively lively advance, reflecting, brokers said, the revival of reinvestment demand following tax selling last month.

Many traders continued to stand aside pending more light on what congress will do and how business will perform over the next few months. Industrial news, though, remained encouraging.

Favored stocks included the preferreds of American Power & Light, American & Foreign Power and Electric Power Light. Also posting modest upturns were Loft (at another new 1939-40 peak), American Can, Boeing, American Telephone, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda and Standard Oil of N. J.

Bonds were irregularly improved and commodities mixed. European markets were steady.

Body in Trunk Found in Chicago

Victim Is That of Woman About 45 Years of Age

Chicago, Jan. 5 (AP)—The body of a woman about 45 years old, the face and head showing signs of a beating, was found wedged in a trunk today in a South Side alley.

First reports to police said the body had been pressed into the trunk with the legs drawn up to the chest. The face was bruised and discolored and the head bloody.

Policeman Verner Johnson said the body appeared to be fully clothed and that the garments were of better than ordinary quality. One foot was protruding from the trunk. The leg appeared to have been broken when the body was crammed into the trunk.

The trunk itself was relatively new but inexpensive, and was partly wrapped in an old blanket. It was discovered by a junkman passing.

The junkman, Frank Robinson, negro, started to drag the trunk down the alley, intending to take it home, but its weight made him wince. He opened the lid to examine his find.

The body was clad in a black crepe dress, white undershirt, black shoes, silk stockings and a brown coat with an apparently expensive fur cape. A blue kimono was wrapped around the head. Police made only a cursory examination, pending the arrival of coroner's aids. There was a scalp wound near the left temple and deep bruises under each eye.

Judge Bondy has not yet set the date for their trial on the indictment's two counts, possession of the unregistered 75-gallon still, and possession of 500 gallons of mash fit for distillation.

Demand that pari-mutuel betting be permitted on dog race tracks came chiefly, a G.O.P. majority leader said, from the metropolitan area where bills to legalize the sport repeatedly have originated.

Governor Lehman vetoed two such bills. Supporters of Democratic Senator John J. The constitutional amendment restricts mutuels to horse tracks.

Bennett of Saugerties on a charge of trapping without a license. He also was fined $10 on a charge of failure to have his name plate on traps, but sentence was suspended on this charge.

Roth's troubles had their beginning when a valuable fox hound belonging to Norman Elwyn, of Woodstock, failed to return home after a hunting trip last Friday, according to Trooper Reilly. Searching for the dog Elwyn found it was discovered that the animal had been caught in a trap and later found the animal's body buried under a pile of stones.

Investigating the affair Trooper Reilly traced the ownership of the trap to Roth. The latter admitted that the dog had been caught in his trap and had been shot when it was discovered that his leg was broken. Roth paid Elwyn $50 to reimburse him for the loss of his dog.

TRAFFIC GROWS SAFER

While Europe and Asia are getting more dangerous to live in right along, this continent is growing safer. We are saving lives by scientific and humane processes in great numbers, but this kind of saving is hard to reckon. In one particular, which was formerly a national disgrace, the figures can be determined definitely. This is in the matter of traffic deaths on city streets and rural highways. And the progress in this field is very pleasing.

A few years ago these traffic deaths, mostly caused by bad driving and by cars and trucks in bad condition, were a national disgrace and growing worse all the time. Then we suddenly began to wake up and do something about it. As Kipling observed long ago, with all our carelessness, we can "turn a keen, untroubled face home to the instant need of things," and we do it when things get bad enough.

We like to make a game even of serious matters. So all over the country cities, towns and states began competing with each other in this matter of traffic safety. Scores of cities, formerly careless or hopeless about the safety of motorists and pedestrians on the streets, began to take reduction of traffic accidents as seriously as they used to take increase of population. And in a way it served the same purpose—a life saved is as good as a citizen gained.

It is pleasant just now, as the new year opens, to see so many cities bragging about their reduction of traffic fatalities and competing so earnestly for the honor of calling themselves "safest" in their population groups. Several cities, instead of steadily mounting fatalities, have reduced them more than one-half in the last two or three years. Despite the general reduction in traffic fatalities throughout the country, deaths on the highways during the Christmas and New Year's holidays were appalling, the figures looking like a war casualty report.

No one suggests that we call off Christmas and New Year observance hereafter in order to avoid such tolls. But safety councils and traffic authorities and newspapers throughout the country are trying to reduce the needless annual slaughter of human beings. They would make swifter progress with more cooperation on the part of the careless and self-destructive public.

"SAND IN THEIR CRAW"

The free countries were all needing something to stiffen their spirits and spines against the bad brutes who were kicking civilization around, and those incredible Finns seem to have provided the stiffening. Col. Frederick Palmer, veteran journalist, author, war correspondent and military authority, calls the recent Finnish defense "the most stirring and important thing in the whole European war," and the possible "turning point of world history" as to whether autocracy or democracy shall prevail.

If this is a matter of vital interest to American newspaper readers, he says, it is far more so to the rulers and military men all the way from Finland to the Persian Gulf. The big democracies take heart. All the small self-governing nations straighten up, present a firmer front to aggressors and turn more confidently to the free powers for protection.

"Finland's example should put sand in the craw of Rumania," he says, "which has an army three times the size of Finland's, and in the craws of all the other Balkan nations, Norway, Sweden, the Netherlands, Switzerland and all the little nations may take heart."

In this inspiring situation Americans, too, have a part to play. Our role is to help uphold the spirit and fighting power of the brave little Finnish democracy by all the encouragement and material help that can be given by a non-belligerent nation.

BIGGER BATTLESHIPS

Battleships, which Americans a few years ago were beginning to regard as obsolete, seem to be going up again. At least in size and weight. After focusing attention on those German "pocket battleships" of only 10,000 tons, which nevertheless look pretty big and powerful, a normal American battleship of 35,000 tons seems like a whale of a ship. But that is, or may be, only a starter. For Congress recently voted funds to start work on a 45,000-ton battleship. And now a House sub-committee is "exploring the advisability" of building some 65,000-tonners. One congressman even talks of raising the ante to 80,000 tons. A warship of that size would look like a fortified island and throw up a wave suggesting a Bay of Fundy tide, and might cost $100,000,000 to $150,000,000.

Our battleships, no doubt, are good. Naval experts say our navy as a whole is the best in the world for our purposes and all-round fighting power. And our naval tradition is conservative. It doesn't seem likely that we're going to plunge all at once into a general doubling of our battleship size. Our experts will want to know, first, what the various types and sizes of British battleships do in this war?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

HEAT RELIEVES PAIN

When you are suffering severe pain from rheumatism, arthritis, or neuralgia, you are likely to reach for the strongest pain killing drug, except morphine which you wisely refuse to use. Most physicians believe that while searching for the cause of your pain, there is less harm to the body by using a pain killing drug than trying to withstand a pain that wracks your mind and body.

Unfortunately, most of us forget that there are other methods of relieving pain and stiffness besides drugs. Among these other methods are what are called "physical" measures, that is, heat, massage, and electricity.

In speaking of neuritis—the severe rheumatic pain due to organisms or products manufactured by organisms, Dr. Richard Kovacs, New York, New York State Journal of Medicine states that general heat measures—electric cabinet baths, hot baths—should be used because they speed up the body processes and increase the rate at which the poisons are removed from the blood and tissues.

"Mild local heating is the main standby to give relief from pain. Its action is two-fold because it not only brings about direct quieting of the nerve endings but also relieves or relaxes the adjoining muscles which are in a state of spasm as they try to protect the damaged part (joints, tendons)". It is this continuous spasm or tenseness that helps to cause so much pain.

"This explains why the more penetrating forms of heating—diathermy and short wave diathermy—are more effective than hot compresses and balneotherapy. In mild cases counterirritation of the skin is helpful by several types of current—high frequency, galvanic, and ultra-violet light treatment."

In addition to heat other "physical" measures used are massage to improve the nutrition of the part (brings blood to part faster and removes wastes), to prevent thickening of the tissues affected, and to prevent wasting of the muscles. Passive exercises (set by the attendant, not by the patient) to prevent deformity and shortening and growing together of the ends of the joints; active exercise and hot applications to keep the unparalyzed muscles in good condition.

Heat, in any form, relieves pain.

Sufferers with rheumatism and arthritis and their families will be interested in this helpful Barton Booklet entitled "Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis" (No. 109), which contains many helpful suggestions as to cause, various forms of treatment, diets, etc. Send your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mailing and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Social Security

Editor's Note: Every worker who has a Social Security account number card should know how the recent Congressional changes in the Old-Age and Survivors Insurance provisions of the Social Security Act apply to him or her. For the benefit of readers of The Kingston Daily Freeman, the Social Security Board's field office has prepared this article, Charles E. Burke, has prepared a series of brief articles, each explaining one point of the new provisions.

The Federal old age insurance system is similar to other insurance plans. The worker pays a tax, and so does his employer, to help pay the costs of the benefits which the worker will receive. In other words, he pays a premium on what might be called an insurance policy, which will pay benefits to him when he is 65 or over and to his family if he should die.

The old-age insurance tax paid by the worker is 1 per cent of his wages and for the employer it is also 1 per cent on the worker's wages. The employer deducts 1 per cent from the worker's wages and sends that with his own 1 per cent wage tax to the Federal Government. The law provides that the employer shall give each worker a receipt for the taxes he takes out of his pay. He must furnish such receipt at least once a year or whenever a worker leaves his employer.

Nearly 47,000,000 workers now have accounts with the Social Security Board. Each worker's account contains a record of his wages as reported by his employer every three months.

If a worker has reason to believe that a mistake has been made in his wage record or that all of his wages have not been reported, he should request from the Social Security Board a statement of his wage total. Discrepancies which may thus be found in any wage earner's record will be corrected by the Board.

Any worker can get a post card request form at the local office of the Social Security Board. All he has to do is fill in this form and mail it to the Board which will send him a statement showing the wages credited to his account.

For further information call or write Charles E. Burke, Manager, Post Office Building.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

MACHINERY — INDUSTRY OF THE YEAR

Babson Says Activity To Double 1939 Volume

Babson Park, Fla., Jan. 5.—The machinery and machine tool business wins the vote as the "Industry of the Year for 1940." Operations in this business in the first half of the year should run 100 per cent above the early months of 1939. "Good times," paced by the heavy industries and armaments, make the machinery business an odds-on favorite in the 1940 Prosperity Derby.

Each January I select the industry which I feel has the most sensational outlook for the New Year. My nominations for recent years have included building, aviation, and chemicals. All these have rosy outlooks for early 1940, but I am picking machinery and machine tools for the flashiest performance. There are eight clean-cut reasons why I cast my vote for this "dark horse" industry:

Industry at New Peak

Machine tool orders and operations promise to reach new all-time peaks in the months just ahead. Right now, the tool branch of the industry is smashing all records. It should continue to do so well into 1940.

Demand for machinery will be broader this year than in the ill-starred boomlet of 1936-37. Then the majority of orders came from the consumer goods industries. Today, the heavy industries are going full blast, while the consumer goods businesses are also running wide open.

Potential demand is tremendous. The big industries have been in the doldrums for years. Pull business and slim profits have piled up vast totals of deferred machinery orders. Expanding business, low interest rates, rising labor costs, and the like are now finally unleashing these long-postponed orders.

Shipyards Swarm With Activity

Shipbuilding has suddenly come to life after years of inactivity. Every shipyard in America today is sprouting the keel of a man-of-war or a merchantman. A huge modern ship requires millions of dollars worth of machinery.

The machinery industry is highly cyclical. In simple language, this means it is a "prince or pauper" business. It rises sensationally when business is headed upward; it plunges spectacularly when the business plug is pulled. This year it should surge ahead because the tides of recovery are running strong.

The long-term of the industry is sharply upward. Rising labor costs, selfish labor practices, antagonistic labor rulings have put a forced draught under labor-saving machinery. Keen business competition and skyrocketing taxes have sent research engineers forreting out instances where new and modern machinery can save manufacturing costs.

World Tension Big Factor

World-wide war preparations have "hopped up" the industry. Tanks, airplanes, Big Berthas, all lean heavily on this industry for intricate instruments and other machinery. Moreover, we are taking over Germany's big South American machinery market by default. Even if peace comes, our own armament program will keep the machinery business humming overtime.

The power industry is heading into its biggest construction year since 1929. Use of electricity is breaking all records. Additional costly generating machinery must be installed to take care of this rapidly-growing load.

Skilled Labor Shortage

For these reasons, I am convinced that machinery and machine tool concerns will "go to town" in early 1940. Only shadow on their outlook is the shortage of skilled tool workers. Most machine companies are digging into the bottom of their labor barrel right now and finding the supply of workers pretty well picked over. Only a lack of skilled machine tool men can puncture my forecast.

The above remarks, of course, mean that all connected with this industry can look forward to bright prospects for 1940. Workers, employers, salesmen, suppliers, and investors are all set for this year. Investors must remember, however, that the industry swings high and low. They must also recognize that there are only a handful of machinery and machine tool companies whose securities have a broad market.

The industry is a comer. It helps its customers cut costs—and lower costs are a powerful sales argument. It has made tremendous technological advances. The tasks performed by machinery today are nothing short of amazing. Machines will do everything now except say "Good Morning" to the boss. Hence, with the type of business gains I expect in the first half of this year, I think the industry will break fast and finish strong in the 1940 Business Sweepstakes.

Character Cannot Be Mechanized

However, I want to add to this conclusion a word of warning to parents and school officials. Do not think you can beat the machine by copying the machine. One reason for so much unemployment today among young people is that research laboratories are making machines almost human; while public schools are making graduates almost mechanical. Machines can supply accuracy and speed, but not ideas, initiative, and inspiration.

These latter are what we need in order to get our people back to work, to balance our budget, to save our free institutions. Hence, parents must insist upon training for their children rather than diplomas—and upon spiritual "oomph" rather than empty educational honors. If they do not, our wonderful machines, like Frankenstein's monster, will finally destroy the material civilization which they have so ably helped to create.

Story of Roosevelt's Budget: More 'Pump Priming,' Business Holiday and Three-Billion Deficit for Another Year

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)
Washington, Jan. 5.—Another year of "pump priming" and another postponement of the normal processes of business operation in America and another deficit of nearly $3,000,000,000—this tells the story of President Roosevelt's budget message for the fiscal year to begin July 1 next.

Eleven consecutive years of deficits with a depression cost of nearly $30,000,000,000 constitutes the largest stretching of Uncle Sam's credit in the whole history of the republic. Even in wartime the public debt did not approach its present level.

Examination of the figures by the laymen will show that "work relief" takes more than a billion and a quarter dollars, agriculture takes a billion more, and public works and other pump priming activities absorbs another billion. The total of these three items is $3,300,000,000, which is more or less equal to the annual deficits.

What makes it necessary to spend $3,300,000,000 on pump priming each year? What is there about America's present national economy that requires these big subsidies out of the public treasury? In these three items comes political support of unprecedented strength to the administration. But the question is never settled as to whether the political support comes as a reward for the paternalism shown by the administration, or whether support is deliberately sought by the party in power through use of large scale spending.

An interesting test may come some day when another political party is in the saddle. New Dealers say the subsidies would not be materially cut. There is, on the other hand, no doubt, that tax receipts go up as business expands, and, if the national government is committed for years to come to some form of subsidy to agriculture and to public works, then some method of stimulating private business so as to yield more tax money out of the present rates would seem to be logical.

What the opponents of the administration claim is that, if reform policies and experimentation were ended and sensible programs of liberalism adopted, business would improve to such an extent that less subsidy would be needed and tax collections would rise.

Most disappointing about the budget message is the way the figures are presented. No corporation applying for registration at the securities and exchange commission would be permitted to go before investors with a system of accounting such as is now proposed by the President. It is true that the operating statements of the government have never been in accord with the customary accounting methods of private business. But, when the deficits are so large, it is natural that there should be an even greater interest than ever before in what the true condition of the annual fiscal picture really is to be.

Thus, the President's effort to reduce the appearance of a deficit of $2,876,000,000 by stating that $700,000,000 will be recouped from the assets of government agencies belongs properly in any plan or proposal to show how the deficit will be financed. But the true deficit is the subtraction of receipts from expenses in this case. Likewise, there is no certainty that the proposed new taxes will raise any $460,000,000, yet this item is lumped into the proposed receipts when an effort is made to indicate a deficit of about $1,716,000,000. Likewise, the estimates for relief are tentative, and heretofore there have been supplementary appropriations for WPA and other large deficiency appropriations.

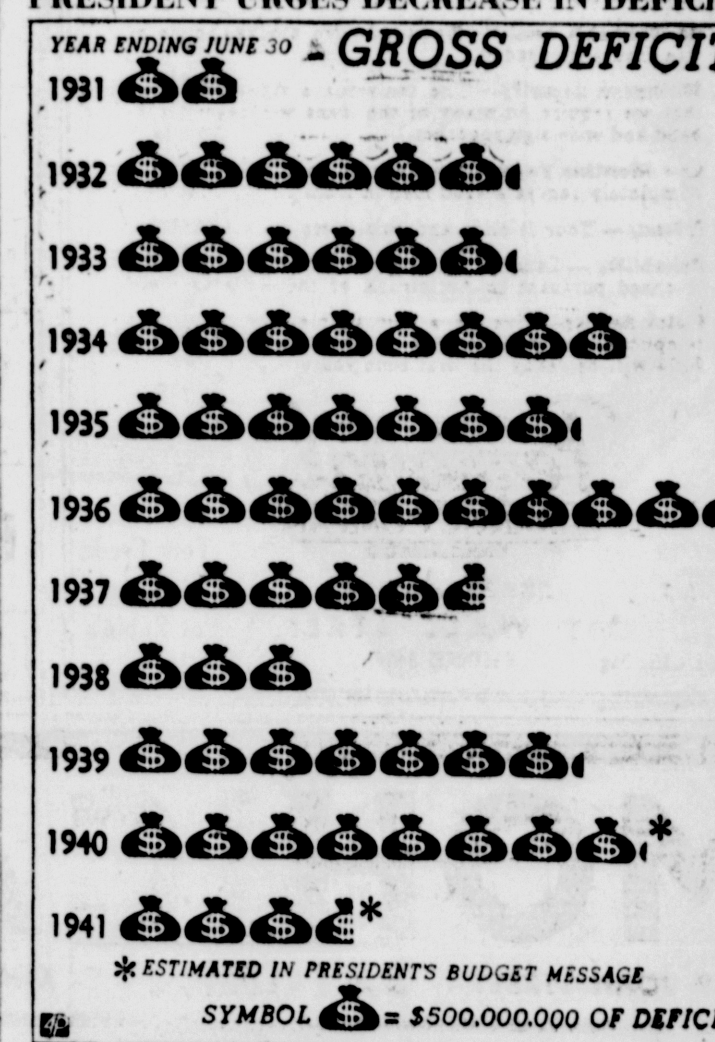

From a political standpoint, it is desirable, of course, for the administration to appear to be cutting down the deficits. But it had a downward trend once before, only to let the red figures rise again. The full effect of the President's way of presenting the new budget is to give the appearance of quite a drop in the deficit, and it is probable that the campaign speakers on behalf of the Democratic ticket will be using all these revised projections of the budget to assist them on the stump.

It is also possible for the administration to defer some of its expenditures in the present fiscal year, which winds up on June 30 next, and give out during the campaign a rosier summary of expenses and deficits than is now indicated for the present fiscal year. The latest indicated deficit for the year ending June 30, 1940, is about $3,900,000,000, which is one of the largest in the whole Roosevelt regime. It may be cut down a few hundred million by deferring to the fiscal year beginning July 1 next.

As long as the borrowing continues, public opinion is likely to be aroused as much as when a real effort is made to balance the budget by taxation. This will not be done prior to the November, 1940, election. This is to be another pump-priming, borrowing year and a year with restraint still retained upon the opportunities of private business to expand and furnish direct employment.

PRESIDENT URGES DECREASE IN DEFICIT

Urging slashes in farm, relief and public works spending, but asking $460,000,000 in special defense taxes, President Roosevelt in his budget message to congress proposed a $1,716,000,000 deficit—one of the smallest in a decade. The above chart shows how this deficit stacks up with the $3,933,000,000 estimated for the current fiscal year and with the actual deficits from 1931 through 1939.

the future to American fruit growers.

The meeting will open Wednesday morning, January 24, with a session on insect and disease control problems. A number of specialists from the State Experiment Station and the State College of Agriculture will lead discussion. Professor R. D. Anthony will discuss "Orchard Soil Management" and L. C. Anderson of Claverack will tell about "Soil Moisture Problems in the Hudson Valley." Several other Hudson valley growers are on the program.

At a session devoted to competition and price trends in the apple industry, presided over by J. Wessel TenBroeck of Hudson the general price situation will be reviewed by Dr. G. E. Brandow of Cornell University. Dr. M. P. Rasmussen, professor of marketing at Cornell, will discuss retail competition in fruit. Another visitor will be Howard Gilmore of Westboro, Mass., president of the Nashoba Apple Packing Association, who will give experiences of his organization in grading and packing McIntosh apples.

The annual dinner of the society will be at the Hotel Governor Clinton Thursday evening, January 25.

An increase in the volume of farm-mortgage financing is expected in 1940. As in the case of short-term credit, ample funds will be available for mortgage loans. Federal and private agencies are in a position to make such loans in increased amounts.

Prowling Pig Pursues Pup, Who Chases Pig, Who Takes Over Dog House, Neighbors

Melrose, Mass., Jan. 5 (AP).—If neighbors of Elmer George slept late this morning, you can't really blame them.

A 200-pound pig, wandering down Florence avenue, tried to find protection from the chill night air in a doghouse which already was occupied by George's 80-pound St. Bernard.

The dog protested—in a loud voice. George came out to investigate and found the pig and the dog circling the dog house. First, he said, the dog chased the pig. Then, after a rest, the pig chased the dog. Neighbors for three blocks around, their midnight slumbers disturbed, converged on the scene with suggestions.

Police came running. They couldn't catch the pig either. A farmer came up with a block and tackle, but by that time the pig, weary and disgusted, had crawled into the St. Bernard's parlor for a little rest.

The farmer rigged up his block and tackle and hauled the protesting pig out. Police told him to take it home and keep it and told the neighbors to go home and get some sleep. He did, and they did.

Finnish Fighting Fairbanks' Will Becomes Guerrilla Warfare in East Of Mary Pickford

Red Army's threat of splitting Finland in two with a drive across her narrow "waist," and opened the way for the Finnish sallies.

With the main bodies of both armies lying back now, the fighting has been largely hand-to-hand guerrilla skirmishes between ski soldiers, mostly in Russia, and ambushes by the white-clad Finns who swoop in sudden attacks and vanish.

No Battle Line

There no longer is a well-defined battle line in this meandering warfare in a zone that takes 40 hours to tour by automobile.

War and peace mingle strangely close to the embattled areas. Along the roads to the front in the Arctic darkness one sees a milkmaid on the way to her morning chores and, returning at night, the automobile's headlights pick out a boy pumping a bicycle.

Occasionally a reindeer slips across the one good road to the frontier.

It is a rolling road over which the car bobs at about 30 miles an hour something like a ship at sea. It is cut through solid forests, broken only by lakes or scattered clearings. The lakes are frozen so solid your driver confidently speeds across the ice.

Periodically you stop to get warm and dry or to eat and sleep.

A woman welcomes you for the noontime hat at the door of a two-room farmhouse and ushers you into a bedroom walled with timber cut from the forests outside and dinked with moss. By a stove—almost all chimneys with a narrow iron grate opening for wood—a three-year-old sleeps.

In the kitchen-living room, your hostess chats with ambivalence core drivers while she boils coffee.

Lessons From Laplanders

You take your lesson from these hardy Laplander fighters. You take off your doeksin and inner woolen socks to dry them before the fire.

Warm feet are the biggest problem in this deathly cold. The average clothing of a correspondent includes two pairs of pants—one of heavy ski weight—two pairs of underwear, two woolen shirts, a sweater, a jacket and a fur or sheepskin coat.

Driving to the front in a blizzard, my car slipped into a six-foot snowbank. An ambulance towed us out and after an hour's wait the Finns turned out a fast snowplow to clear the road ahead. Because of the weather and the thickly wooded country-side, most travel in this season is by ski.

At every army stop, efficient women of the Lotta Svard, the Finnish Women's Auxiliary, who operate the field kitchens while their men fight, brought out coffee, tea and sandwiches. In one was an English-speaking woman doctor.

Before I set out into the night to visit the battle scenes, general headquarters sent a patrol ahead. After it had scouted for 20 minutes it served as a guide for a visit to an abandoned Russian Hospital.

Behind the lines, foreign press headquarters is a comfortable, modern hotel with good and plentiful food, even ripe peaches.

Committee to Meet

A very special meeting of the committee in charge of the coming communion breakfast of St. Mary's Holy Name Society will be held at the school hall this evening at 8 o'clock. General Chairman Francis Noonan requests not only the entire committee to be present but as many members of the society that can find it convenient to attend. The breakfast will be held Sunday, January 14, and will be broadcast over station WKNY.

Social Party

The L. A. of Union Hose will hold a social party at the engine house on East Union street January 11 at 8:30.

New York, Jan. 5 (AP).—Douglas Fairbanks' will, with no mention of his former wife, Mary Pickford, was filed today bequeathing half his estate, up to a million dollars, to his widow, the former Lady Sylvia Ashley of England.

The dashing movie hero, who died in Santa Monica, Calif., December 12, left 12-40 of his property, up to $500,000, to his son, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and $100,000 to his "brother and other relatives."

The will was executed November 2, 1936, shortly after Fairbanks married Lady Ashley. A considerable part of his property was in the United States. Artists, film producers and others in which Miss Pickford is a partner. She now is the wife of Actor Buddy Rogers.

There was some conjecture as to whether a reference to Miss Pickford might have been made in a sealed envelope left with the will, addressed to Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Lawyers said it concerned a $50,000 bequest to young Fairbanks.

Mayor Regrets Logan Resignation

Mayor Heiselman confirmed today, with great regret, the resignation from the police board of George Dewey Logan, who has served as a member of the police board since he had been appointed by Mayor Heiselman on May 4, 1937.

The mayor said that Mr. Logan was co-proprietor of the Columbia Garage of this city, dealers in international trucks, and that because of the requirement of the state law, his firm was unable to bid on purchases of city trucks. Mr. Logan stated, the mayor said, that as far as he was personally concerned he was willing to make this sacrifice in order to serve the city as a police commissioner without compensation, but that the recent purchase by the city of several trucks had emphasized the fact that because he was a police commissioner he was imposing a possible loss of business on his partner in the Columbia Garage, and in order to hereafter be free to bid on city business he had decided to separate himself from the city's service.

Mayor Heiselman expressed his deep appreciation of Mr. Logan's service as a police commissioner and said that this incident again emphasized the difficulties involved in getting and holding good men on city boards because of the prohibition against selling to the city.

A fool and his money are soon out-smarted.

On Is Beloved

BY LOUISE PLATT HAUCK

YESTERDAY, Sue goes to Kansas City to take a plane, and discovers that the newspapers that Bob is in. She realizes that she has been deceived, and that Bob is not in love with her. She is home again.

Chapter 29

Change Of Fortune

SHE went to the telephone, called Bob's number. His personal secretary answered.

"Mr. Trenton's out just now, Mrs. Trenton. I don't know when he'll be back. No, he's not on message but I got the impression he didn't intend to return all today."

"You have no idea where he went? The Benton Club, perhaps? The Chamber of Commerce?"

"I wish I knew. Something human and sympathetic creeps into the crisis voice. 'Neither of those places, I'm afraid. It's—it's terrible blow to him, Mrs. Trenton; but of course you don't need me to tell you that!'"

Sue, her hand still on the instrument, bit her lip. Where should she call, whom should she call next?

Allen! The answer blew gratefully across her hot perplexity.

It was late afternoon before Bob returned to his home. Allen had telephoned his sister several times, reassuring messages for the most part. Bob was tied up in a conference at the bank. Bob would be free presently. Bob was perfectly all right; pretty low in his mind, poor fellow, and dog-tired, but taking the blow like a man.

Sue met him in the hall. Her small face was quite beautiful in its forgetfulness of self, in its sweet sympathy. He stared at her for a moment as though she were a stranger. Then:

"Sue!" he said brokenly. "Oh, Sue, you're going to stand by me! I knew of course you would, but I didn't realize all it would mean to me. Sue... there!" She drew him into the livingroom with a soothing hand on his arm. "Of course I'll stand by you. I'm your wife!"

Kitchen

"YOU need a man to do that, Sue," Pats said disapprovingly. "That is, if you're going to bother with it at all. Personally I don't see why you do!"

Sue, panting a little, ceased her attack on the clouds of dirt in the tiny back yard. The area she intended to be a flower garden had been spaded but not raked. Now in the thin April sunshine, she was dressed in old riding clothes and her shabbiest shoes, wrestling with the stubborn clay.

"It's fun," she informed her sister-in-law. "This used to be a charming old garden, Barbara's grandmother tells me. I'm going to try restoring it just as it was in the Academy's time."

Pats' disparaging glance traveled from the tiny brick building which was now the Trenton home, to the larger one some fifty yards away.

"Who but you would think of living in an old kitchen?"

"Kitchen! It was the dining-room, I'd have you know. That's what gives our lovely big room downstairs. But think of the poor girls having to trail clear over here in wet weather when meal-time came around! I wonder why, when they were building the academy, they didn't include diningroom and kitchen!"

The other girl shrugged. It seemed to her supremely unimportant. The Young Ladies' Academy had flourished more than half a century ago. Now the larger place was an apartment house, the smaller had been made modern to the extent of adding plumbing, lights and furnace. Nothing else had been changed.

"You were foolish not to take an apartment," she rebuked the gardener. "You could have had five nice rooms for the same rent as this shack."

Sue smiled but said nothing. Her tiny domain had charm, and she knew it. The wide-boarded floors were of walnut, the big old room which, with the exception of the small kitchen constituted the entire first floor, was quaintly paneled.

"You haven't asked me what I came for," Pats suggested presently. She was smart in a green wool suit, with gloves, hat and shoes of the same creamy brown. Sue had dragged out a chair for herself, careful to see that it was placed on the sidewalk and not on the actual scene of Sue's labors.

"For the pleasure of seeing me, I hope!"

Pats did not smile. Allen's sister was no longer an asset to her save that her popularity in the town seemed undiminished. Mrs. Allen Davenport had to buy her own clothes now, could no longer dine at the beautiful Trenton place, nor rely on a Trenton car to drive her about.

"I came to tell you that your house is sold!"

Sue's smile vanished. How like Pats to wish to be the bearer of bad news! Not that it was bad news, in this case. The sale of the beautiful home north of town had been an occasion of rejoicing to both herself and Bob; but Pats could not know that.

"Aren't you sorry?" Pats demanded. "Heavens, Sue, you're the coolest thing! Think of that lovely place—all its furniture and everything! I should think you'd simply howl at the idea of letting it go. Forest says you needn't have given up the furniture, or your personal things—like your own car, and the pearls Bob gave you. You were an idiot to do it, I think!"

"I'm sure you do, Pats; but Bob and I saw the matter differently. Whew, this clay is stiff!" She dug into a pocket for her handkerchief and wiped her warm face. "As for the sale of the house, I knew about it last week; knew that there was a chance for it, anyway." Her tone dismissed the subject so emphatically that even Pats hesitated about commenting further. However, she had other tiny barbs which she proceeded to throw at Sue, hoping to penetrate that busy young person's calm serenity.

Tragedy?

FOREST says they offered you a grand position in that new antique shop," she observed. "Why on earth didn't you take it? You could have kept a maid, then, and still have money of your own. It's far smarter to be a business woman these days, whether you need or not, than it is to do your own housework."

Sue's ironic gaze rested briefly on the expensive figure of her sister-in-law. This from Pats! Woe Allen's home was badly run by her servant who had finally succumbed the long suffering Maggie; then Pats' earlier training could have enabled her to take her own twice without difficulty! Sue remembered the last time she and Bob had dined with the Davenports, at Bob's disgusted comment of food and service when they reached home.

"Forest is a good deal to say, it seems to me, Pats! What we do, we don't do, really none of his business. I feel I've got this pretty smooth. I think, Bob and I are going to let the seeds in tomorrow afternoon."

"His afternoon, off, isn't it? Doesn't he feel wretched, working in a retail shoe store? I told Allen I wouldn't embarrass poor Bob by going in—"

"He isn't a clerk, by the way; he's a buyer. I doubt if you'd see him. Go in by all means, if that's where you like to buy your shoes!" There was an edge to her voice. She had had enough of Pats for the morning.

"Well, anyway, I do think it's been a tragedy for you both. Giving up your membership at the country club, losing everything on earth you possess, having people drop you from their lists—"

Sue suddenly lost patience. "Did you ever hear of Job's conforters, Pats? You're a swell imitation of one, anyway. I'm going into the house now. Coming!"

"Y—Yes, for a little while, perhaps, I've got to meet some of the girls downtown for lunch but there's an hour yet." She glanced about the big room they had entered. "I'll say for you, Sue, you've done wonders here!"

The other nodded briefly. At last her share of her mother's fortune had come out of storage, and beautiful old furniture it was, too. The well-proportioned old room would have satisfied the most exacting taste, its owner thought. Upstairs were two bedrooms and a bath, reached by an almost spiral staircase curving from a narrow hall. This was her entire domain, and she had come to love it already.

She was not unhappy, she realized suddenly. She was free, more nearly content than she had been in years. Perhaps it was because all decisions had been made, the uncertainty ended, the parting with Eric finally effected.

There had been a terrific struggle between them. Looking back it seemed to Sue incredible that so momentous a situation could have existed for days and none of those near her have realized it.

She had sent Eric a letter on the day of Bob's catastrophe. She had worded it cautiously but so explicitly that she felt he could not fail to understand. His sole reply had been "Come at once."

Telegrams flew back and forth between them for two days; then he called her, ringing attention to the winds. Sue had taken the call in the living room at the actual moment Bob and his lawyer were discussing the settlement of his affairs in the library adjoining.

Interrupting her eager flow of words, Eric said:

"The failure is beside the point. It has nothing to do with us. For the last time, Sue, will you come?"

"Eric, you must see that I can't. Not now, at least. When things are straightened out—"

"Do you love me, Sue?"

"Oh, Eric, yes!"

"Then put all this nonsense aside and come. Or I'll come to you, if you'd rather. I'll take you away. Do you hear me, dearest?"

Flashes of Life

Close Shave

Norwalk, Conn.—George Hill, in a barber's chair to get his whiskers cut, had a close shave; but not the kind which takes latter off the face.

Just as the barber was about to begin operations, a heavy truck crashed into the shop and came to a halt a couple of inches from Hill's chair.

Pastor Lends a Hand

Zionsville, Ind.—Milkman Fred Gregory, going to a hospital for an operation, couldn't find a substitute driver for his 30-mile route.

So the Rev. Frank Shottelkorb, pastor of the Zionsville Christian Church, volunteered — and has been on the job daily since Gregory left.

Snowbound

Lake Alpine, Calif.—Harry and Arthur Shinkle, mountain resort caretakers, drove through a heavy snowstorm to free a snowbound motorist.

But while they worked their own automobile became hopelessly imbedded, so they went home on skis. They'll go back next spring to retrieve their car.

Optimists

Austin—Two out of three University of Texas students believe they would reject pensions for themselves at 65.

The students also expect to go right from graduation exercises into jobs paying $100 or more a month, a survey disclosed.

Wacky Weather

York, Neb.—For sheer variety Weatherman J. H. Newbold offers last December in York:

More than that, he follows her to the street car and then follows the street car in his ice truck, shouting endearments the while—much to the glee of fellow strap-hangers. The same procedure, she said, is repeated at night.

The judge put the case on ice by issuing an injunction restraining Ernest from repeating his tactics.

Plenty of Scrap

Houston, Tex. (AP)—Scrap iron and steel—prime food for the jaws of war—will float in tremendous quantities, barring accident, to British ports in the next 12 months. Exporters estimate 350,000 tons of 800,000 ordered by Great Britain will be sent from Gulf ports.

The rub is that the buyer will have to take the jail home with him. The court has sold the lot on which the old structure stands.

Kingston High Cage Team Meets Newburgh Tonight

Another step in defense of their DUSO League basketball title will be taken by the Maroon and White basketball teams of Kingston High School this evening at the municipal auditorium when Newburgh's Goldbacks will form the opposition. Game time is 8:15 o'clock. At seven o'clock Tommy Weems and his Maroon second team will be pitted against a junior outfit from this city.

With close victories over Port Jervis and Ellenville the not too high stepping Kiamen cannot afford to find themselves in another session of mediocre play. And, with the Liberty Redskins tied with them for first place honors, Kingston must polish off the Goldbacks to keep in the running for the coveted title.

While Kingston and Newburgh face off on the auditorium boards two other attractions will be taken care of in other league towns. Besides the local affair the second most important fray is the Liberty-Monticello bill. Port Jervis and Ellenville will also come together. Kingston, Liberty and Ellenville are slight favorites to eke out triumphs.

According to the local experts who usually find themselves out on a limb in predicting anything concerning high school sports, the local combine has finally hit part of its expected strength. This took place a couple of weeks ago when Kingston knocked off Saugerties in much smoother fashion than in the first meeting when Kingston appeared very stale on the court in Saugerties.

However, this idea was merely put together on the basis of that particular game. Kingston has not up gradually since the first one or two games and by tonight the Kiamen may really put on a four-star exhibition. And if the Goldbacks from Newburgh have anything to say about it, the Maroon and White eagles will be required to be in that category if they expect to trim the visitors from the Hill City. Although down in the circuit's standings, the Goveyemen have displayed bits of real power. When a Kingston-Newburgh match is scheduled, whether in football, basketball or baseball the fans on hand always see a grand show. So in most cases records won't mean anything to night when the undefeated Kiamen comes up against the Goveyemen.

Pressed into service when Coach G. Warren Kias couldn't find a capable holdover from last year's great team, Bob Curran, the boy who has been going great guns to date, is at present topping the team in just about every possible department. The former Binghamton High School forward is leading the club in points and to make his presence all the more helpful has been playing a swell floor game. Other like Dubin, Lindhorst, Flowers, Strubel and Benjamin have also been on the upgrade.

In the opening game of the season Newburgh was surprised by a stinging defeat at the hands of Middletown, 27-24, a rally giving the Middles the decision in the closing quarter. Then in the next affair Newburgh again lost. But Coach Govey isn't expected to change his lineup. He will probably use Sam Inzerra in the starting brigade. Norm Stewart, Kohler, Pilus and Capoletti will also see action.

The lineups:
Kingston: Curran, rf; Flowers, lf; Lindhorst, lg; Dubin, lg; Strubel, lg.
Newburgh: Inzerra, rf; Fernal, lf; Lawrence, lg; Capoletti, lg.

With Charity at His Side Jacobs Is Angel of Peace

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Aided and abetted by the fair name of charity, Fight Promoter Mike Jacobs stepped out of character today for a short role as the angel of peace, which promises to go a long way toward settling the hottest feud since the Hatfields and McClouds.

The result probably will be that the New York State Athletic Commission and Joe Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento, will "bury the hatchet" in their long-standing row, thus removing the biggest stumbling block in the way of hold-heavyweight bouts between Galento and Mike Baer. This winter and Galento and Joe Louis next summer in New York. These are a couple of tea parties which figure to pay well.

At the same time, the Finnish relief fund, for which the Galento-Baer festivities will be staged in March, will do all right, too, with Mike Jacobs contributing his entire profit. The fight was the top event proposed at a get-together of former President Herbert Hoover, head of the fund, and various sports writers yesterday. Plans were also outlined for an open tennis tournament, a basketball double-header, several other fights and a return American invasion by old Paavo Nurmi.

Leading the way, however, was the fact that the Galento-Baer fight should be a clinch to end the athletic commissioners' feud. For weeks, Joe has resisted all Mike Jacobs' pleadings to hold the fight in New York, simply because neither Joe, as manager, nor Tony, as fighter, hold New York licenses from the commission. But Uncle Mike announced the fight was for charity, so Joe immediately accepted—with a stipulation. That was that he had, at present, no legal power to sign a contract for Galento in this state, but that he would do it in a minute if granted a license.

Thus, the commissioners are the lads "in the middle." And since the fair name of charity is a compelling factor in the fight business, the fight fathers undoubtedly will see the light.

If Joe and Galento are granted licenses, there'd be no reason for the commissioners to take away their sanction again later on. Thus, as the boys would say, this summer's affair is "right in the vest pocket."

Four Changes in Football Designed to Speed Plays

Palm Springs, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP)—College football fans may mark down four changes in the rule book for 1940, including one designed to speed up play and another to encourage the use of short forward passes.

The major change, announced by the rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association at the conclusion of its meeting at the Desert Inn here yesterday, involves the short forward pass.

The new rule says that when a forward pass touches an ineligible player on or behind the line of scrimmage, the penalty will be merely the loss of the down.

If the passer is trapped, however, and throws the ball to save yardage and it touches an ineligible man who is behind the line, the penalty will be the same as for intentionally grounding a pass; namely, 15 yards and loss of the down.

The same penalty still exists if the pass touches an ineligible player beyond the scrimmage line. The penalty for roughing a passer will, in the future, be enforced from the spot of the previous down. Heretofore, in the case of a completed or intercepted pass, the penalty was enforced from the point of the foul, which often made it necessary for the offended team to refuse the penalty.

In order to speed up the game, the committee reduced the time allowed in putting the ball into play from 30 seconds to 25 seconds.

Three Games Will Be Played At Artillery Armory Tonight

There will be three games of basketball this evening at the 156th Field Artillery armory, Manor avenue.

In the first contest the undefeated Headquarters Battery team will play the Elston's Sport Shop quintet, undefeated leaders in the City League. This game is scheduled for 7:15.

Battery A meets the strong Mt. Carmel Five of Hudson at 9:15 p. m. The locals will use their regular lineup.

At 8:15 the Maroon Five of Kingston, which has won seven out of eight games, losing only to the powerful Cornwall Shorties, will meet the Mt. Carmel girls of Hudson who are undefeated. The Maroon Girls of Kingston will use Betty Glass, Rosemary Tremper, Rose Meller, Rose Amato, Ann Brown, Ruth Parslow, Lucille Watrous, Le Kegler and Wanetta Watrous.

Following the games there will be dancing. Admission to the games and dancing is free and the public is invited.

forced from the spot of the previous down. Heretofore, in the case of a completed or intercepted pass, the penalty was enforced from the point of the foul, which often made it necessary for the offended team to refuse the penalty.

In order to speed up the game, the committee reduced the time allowed in putting the ball into play from 30 seconds to 25 seconds.

The fourth new rule requires that cleats be three-eighths of an inch at the top, or point, instead of one half inch, and that the top be parallel with the base. This was the only recommendation suggested by the American Coaches Association which was adopted.

Two rule clarifications were made. In the case of a free ball kicked, or kicked at, the responsibility for determining if the kick was intentional or not rests with the officials. It was also made clear "that on kicks from behind the scrimmage line protection is given the kicker only when it is reasonably obvious that he is going to kick. This applies especially to quick kicks made from close to the line of scrimmage."

Motor Boat Show Offers Big Changes in Pleasure Craft

New York, Jan. 5 (AP)—Coming from a community where a bathtub-full is considered a fairly large body of water, none was prepared for what was seen at a preview of the 35th annual National Motor Boat Show which opens tonight.

Matter of fact, it's an even money bet that the old salts won't be either. For the first cruiser that meets the eye is a $17,000 spoon-nosed cabin boat that will climb sandbars, skip through waterlily-infested ponds, hurdle logs, or run successfully up onto a beach—all without damage to the hull.

The man who was ballyhooing it murmured something about "great help in landing the turbines." If the marines ride in that kind of boat, it's a wonder anybody's left in the army.

That, and a 37-foot double ender auxiliary sailboat, and an aluminum outboard hull model seemed to be the most radical departures from the accepted forms that can be found in a tour of the 150-odd boats that range in price from $15 to $40,000.

One thing is certain, you'll feel awfully poor after pricing the boat you think you must have for next summer.

Color has definitely gained a foothold this year in the magnificent exhibit that tends to prove that "America is building better, safer, stronger boats"—the keynote of the show. En-

In the Bag: One Rabbit and—

This previously unpublished cartoon by the late Eugene (Zim) Zimmerman, nationally known artist of two or more decades ago, illustrates the Ellenville hunter's plight in almost fruitless search for game in this area. True, Zim's hero here has bagged one rabbit and something that looks suspiciously like a skunk, but seems perplexed in quest for more animals. Cartoonist Zim's breezy style won for him considerable space in Judge and other magazines a generation ago.

Motor Boat Show Offers Big Changes in Pleasure Craft

gines now come in bright red, bedroom blue, and a lush lavender shade. There's a sailboat with a yellow hull, white gunwales and a red sail. And the interiors of some of the cabin cruisers put the rainbow to shame.

The major trend, one salesman told us, is "toward diesel engines, if you're interested in sturdiness, but they haven't the speed but about half as many revs." We had to take his word for that.

Streamlining is more pronounced and the major construction changes show this year come in better soundproofing of engine compartments, greater use of safety glass, lighter and airier deck cabins, more use of the torpedo type of hull and brighter and more attractive utilities.

Engines, if you want to be technical, are featuring knee action drive, air jacketing cooling, and redesigned combustion chambers as 1940 highlights.

Cooper Isn't Golfing
Los Angeles, Jan. 5 (AP)—Harry (Bolero) Cooper isn't golfing just now. Blame the rhumba, he moaned as he abandoned a shot at his third Los Angeles Open title. Blushing clear through a heavy coat of tan, Cooper related he pulled a wrist muscle as he and his wife, thumbs locked, went into a twirl. He rhumbaed to the left. He should have rhumbaed to the right.

Sportsmen Say Rabbits Scarce Near Ellenville

Ellenville, Jan. 5—Sportsmen taken at random report a scarcity of rabbits in this area.

Thomas Hentz of Ellenville has hunted small game for the last 10 years but says this season was the poorest for hunting that he has ever experienced.

"I've done most of my hunting in the Finger Lakes region and this year thought I'd try my luck around Ellenville," said Hentz today. "Maybe I'm wrong, but I've never hunted any place where game was so scarce. I did get a couple of partridge during the regular season but I've given up trying to find any rabbits."

Edward Krowetz, inveterate Napanoch hunter, agrees with Hentz on poor hunting conditions in this section.

Some say the mid-July forest fire on the Shawangunk Mountain which towers over Ellenville might have contributed to lack of game in this vicinity.

FBI Representative Addresses Wiltwyck Chapter Members

That crime is a big business at the present time in this country, costing the nation over 15 billion dollars a year, or 42 million dollars a day was the assertion of E. J. Wynn, representative of the New York office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in his address at the January meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Thursday afternoon.

He made the startling statement that there are over four million criminals at large in this country, many of whom are heavily armed and dangerous.

In the past, he added, most law enforcement was of a local nature but the modern systems of rapid transit, making it possible for the criminal to be many miles from the scene of the crime within a few hours, by auto or airplane, have compelled both the state police and the federal government to take up the investigation and punishment of crime.

He cited several well known cases where the criminal had to be followed through several states from one end of the country to another.

Mr. Wynn explained the value of the finger printing clearing house in Washington and the advantage of civilian finger printing. He told about the National Police Academy at Washington where policemen are trained for their work and described the various courses of training through which the Federal Bureau of Investigation must pass. There are three field offices in this state, one in New York city, one in Buffalo and one recently established in Albany.

In closing Mr. Wynn assured all that the effectiveness of the work of his department depended to a great extent upon the cooperation of the general public. He invited chapter members when visiting Washington to call at the national office, and answered questions put by chapter members about his work. Mr. Wynn was introduced by Miss Louise W. van Hovenberg, program chairman.

A short musical program was presented by Mrs. Lloyd R. LeFever, who played two piano solos, "To the Sea" by MacDowell, and "Valse Brillante" by Mass-Zucca, which were greatly appreciated.

The chapter elected the following officers to attend the Continental Congress at Washington, D. C., in April: The regent, Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger; alternate, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills; delegate, Miss Margaret O'Sullivan; alternate, Mrs. Rose K. Witter; other alternates, Mrs. W. D. Hays, Mrs. William Simmons, Mrs. R. R. Gross and Mrs. Walter A. Perret.

A new member, Miss Dorothy A. Davis, of 106 O'Neil street, was announced by the registrar, Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker. Mrs. William S. Simmons, chairman of the resolutions committee, read resolutions upon the death of Mrs. Albert K. Hart, a life member. These were adopted and a copy will be sent to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Howard R. St. John, motion picture chairman, recommended several films soon to be shown here. Mrs. William Macgregor Mills announced that the Junior Group is planning to pack a box of used clothing to be sent to one of the D. A. R. approved schools and would appreciate arti-

Mrs. Mills also reported on the Junior Group dance held December 27, under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. Edgar Freese, as a decided success both socially and financially. She also requested members wishing to take tables at the Junior Group card party January 25, to notify the chairman, Mrs. Catherine McCommons. Mrs. Mills described the Christmas box sent by the Junior Group to the youngest girl at the Tamassee School.

A card was read from Mrs. Smith Stebbins, national chairman of the Ellis Island committee, thanking the chapter for the Christmas box sent for their work.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John Steinert and Mrs. Thomas Lebert.

Here Is Right Advice For the "Home Nurse"

New Booklet for Family Ills

What a feeling of confidence it gives you in caring for family ill if you have authoritative nursing information.

Most frequent problem right now is the common cold. Effective to give your patient a glass of fruit juice every hour to carry away the poisons. If possible have him stay in bed a day or two.

As colds are definitely catching, best to keep your patient away from the rest of the family. And so important, in nursing a prolonged or serious illness, to know correct routine care, to recognize danger signals.

A barometer of your patient's condition is his pulse. To take it accurately, place your first and second fingers on the inside of the wrist above the thumb and count the beats. If they are faint, if the rate is much above the normal 70 to 80 a minute—call the doctor. If he can't come at once, give a stimulant such as strong black coffee, apply hot water bags to feet.

What to do for babyhood ailments such as croup? How to make a bed with the patient in it? In our new 32-page booklet "ABOUT NURSING" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Person," "The Blue Book," "The Etiquette of Social Usage," etc.)

Best Usage Today Includes Father Dear Mrs. Post: Has there been any change in the form of invitation for a large afternoon party for a debutante daughter? We have seen some invitations lately that included the father's name, and as a man's name was never heretofore included on such invitations we wondered whether the invitations that we have seen lately, including the father, were according to best social usage.

Answer: Among New York's most conservative as well as smart, using Mr. and Mrs. is a modern custom. This wording is as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Young

Thursday, the tenth of February

from five until seven o'clock

Four Hostesses Not Always Too Many

Dear Mrs. Post: Are four hostesses too many when they are sisters and they all want to give a party for a new sister-in-law who is moving to town as a stranger? If you approve, will you describe in what order we stand to receive the guests.

Answer: Under ordinary circumstances I think four hostesses are a good many. But in this particular case it would really mean that the bride's entire family-in-law were standing in solid phalanx behind her. There would be nothing incorrect in having all four hostesses in line, with the guest of honor standing second, but it does seem rather formidable to have this many unless the house is huge and the guests number hundreds.

Therefore, if the reception is of moderate size, I think it would be better that the sister in whose house the reception is taking place (or the oldest one, if it is taking place in a club or hotel) stand at the door with the sister-in-law, and that the other three sisters stay nearby, but remain free to move about and look after the guests.

Today's Use of Table Mirrors

Dear Mrs. Post: Are the mirrors under centerpieces no longer considered stylish? I never see them any more and I think they do so much for a table, especially when the candles are lighted.

Answer: Mirrors under centerpieces are, it seems to me, much more "stylish" today than they ever were. In fact, they were particularly suitable in this day of bare, or almost bare, tables. They seldom looked quite right on a damask cloth unless they were of the ornamental variety similar to the 17th and 18th Century table centerpieces in France. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Table Settings." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Endeavor Union To Hold Banquet

The Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union will hold its annual banquet this year at the Kingston Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night, January 27, at 6:30 o'clock.

Preceding the banquet a recreation program is being planned starting at 2 p. m. Among the games planned are a table tennis tourney in singles and mixed doubles, basketball, bowling and group games.

Swimming will also be held. The basketball game is scheduled for 3 p. m., and the County Union has been divided into two groups. The first will be led by Burton Street, a member of Battery A quintet, and in that group will be Congregational, Comforter, Wurts Street Baptist, Bethany Chapel, Flatbush, Rosendale and Blooming.

The second group will be led by Bill Murray, a member of the First Dutch quintet of the Church League. In group two will be First Dutch, First Baptist, Cottage, Port Ewen, Woodstock, St. Remy and Stone Ridge. Each society is to select two boy players.

In table tennis tourney a society can enter as many players in the singles or teams in mixed doubles as they desire.

Another Old Craft

Fertinand, Ind. (AP)—At 80, Ferdinand Bockling, last of the wooden shoe cobblers who served southern Indiana's German-speaking farmers, has quit work and given his bench and tools to a museum. His retirement marked the end of a handicraft industry brought from Europe more than a century ago. Bockling, who learned the trade from an immigrant shoemaker, had made wooden shoes 50 years. He recalled that when he was young a pair of birch or willow shoes sold for 15 cents. They were the warmest kind of footwear, he said, and everybody wore them. At church, said Bockling, farmers would leave their shoes at the door and hear the sermon in their stocking feet.

WHAT IS HOME WITHOUT A GARDEN?

Vines for Your New Home

(By The Master Gardener)

With so many new homes of brick construction, I'll warrant many of you are planning to clothe a portion of your walls with some suitably hardy clinging vine. These mellows and softens a home as nothing else can.

There are a number of hardy vines that will cling to brick, stone or wood. For greatest satisfaction, you must use the vine best adapted to the surface to be covered, and best suited to the exposure in question. In the case of a wood surface, because of the resultant deterioration of the wood, it is not advisable to use vines of this type.

For a vine that will cling to a smooth surface, such as painted brick, as well as rough brick, stone or wood:

Parthenocissus quinquefolia (formerly known botanically as Ampelopsis quinquefolia). Common name, Virginia creeper. A little less tenacious than the Boston ivy. While not suitable for smooth surfaces, it will cling to very rough surfaces, such as rough brick and stone. This also colors brilliantly in the fall.

For shady locations, east or north exposures:

Hedera helix (English ivy). Climbs by aerial rootlets which cling very easily to brick or masonry but will not cling to wood.

Does best in shade or where the walls are in shade for part of the day. It will grow on the east and north side of the house, but does not do well in south or west exposures. In localities where summers are too hot and dry, it will not thrive. There are many variations of English ivy. Most forms are not very hardy. The hardest form to my knowledge is hedera helix baltica (Baltic ivy). This is the variety it is advisable to plant in northern states.

A vine somewhat out of the ordinary for use on brick, masonry or wood walls:

Hydrangea petiolaris (climbing hydrangea). This is a woody vine from Japan which sticks to wood or brick with considerable firmness, as it climbs by aerial rootlets. It blooms in July and August. Has good clean foliage. Hardy except in northernmost states. Deserves to be much more widely planted than it is at the present time. Slow to get established. Will thrive in partly shaded locations, but will flower freely only in full sun.

In planting and subsequent care of all vines, do not overlook the importance of feeding. A complete, balanced plant food, mixed with the soil when planting, and an application of complete plant food in spring and fall and about every four weeks during the growing season, dug in lightly about the roots and watered in well, will do much to produce an abundance of healthy foliage, and in the case of flowering and fruiting vines, a plentiful supply of flowers and fruits.

bright, glossy green, turning to bright tints of scarlet, crimson and orange in the fall. It is not often attacked by disease and insects, and the foliage is not injured by smoke and dirt of cities. It will endure shade. Slow to start, but vigorous when established.

PORT EWEN

Reformed Church Meeting

Port Ewen, Jan. 5.—Last evening many of the Reformed Church congregation gathered in the church house for the annual meeting, preceded by a bountiful pot luck supper. Following the supper community singing of old favorites was enjoyed before setting down to the business of the evening. The Rev. J. B. Steketee was introduced by the Rev. George Berens as a representative of the Classis of Ulster. The Rev. Mr. Steketee outlined the program for the church for the coming year. Annual financial reports of all organizations of the church were read. Deacons Floyd Beesmer and Harry Newton, and Elders Scott Vining and Lester Ferguson were elected to succeed themselves on the consistory. Mr. Berens then announced four evening services for next week, the "Week of Prayer," the first to be Tuesday evening, January 9, at the Methodist Church, with the Rev. Dr. Carroll, of St. James Methodist Church, Kingston, as guest speaker. These services will be union services, alternating between the Methodist and Reformed Churches. Mr. Berens also announced a service sponsored by the Classis on Sunday, January 14, in the First Dutch Church, Kingston, when Dr. Paul Harrison, medical missionary to Arabia, and famous surgeon, will be the speaker.

Rapid Hose Company Officers Named

The annual meeting and banquet of Rapid Hose Company was held last evening at the Engine House on Hone street. New officers for the ensuing year were elected. They are seated left to right: William Pardee, vice-president; Augustus Bunse, president; and Richard Hinkley, recording secretary. Standing in the same order are: Henry Kelsch, financial secretary; William Mohr, second assistant foreman; Charles Bunse, treasurer; Charles Derrenbacher, first assistant foreman; Bernard Coughlin, foreman; and Jacob Port, steward.

would not be located on North Front street. As far as he was concerned he said no new fire house would be constructed unless the city was able to sell the two up-town fire stations for substantial sums which would be used to defray the cost of erecting a new fire house.

Mayor Heiselman said that some years ago the fire board had been offered $22,000 for the Wiltwyck fire station, but that was before he was in office. What price could be obtained at the present time of course is not known.

In opening his address to the volunteer firemen, the mayor referred to his annual message. He said he had pointed out in the message that the tax rate 10 years ago was the same as this year's rate, but that relief costs had increased $200,000 over relief costs 10 years ago.

The mayor said that when he took up the work of preparing the budget for this year he was faced with an increase of $83,000 in budget appropriations in the various city departments. He said that in order to keep the tax rate under $40 he was forced to do considerable slashing, and before he was through he had lopped $46,000 off appropriations.

Mayor Heiselman said that mounting costs of relief unless greatly reduced during 1940 would mean that slashes would again have to be made in the budget in order to keep the tax rate at the $40 level.

Others Speak

Augustus Bunse was again re-elected president of Rapid Hose at the annual meeting which was held before the dinner was served, and following the business meeting the firemen met around the banquet tables spread on the lower floor of the fire house and after a menu of roast beef and all the trimmings had been disposed of President Bunse, presiding as toastmaster, called upon the various guests present to speak.

Others who spoke in addition to the mayor were Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy and Deputy Fire Chief Fred M. Leverich, both of whom called attention to the proposed training school for firemen to be held this summer at the Central Fire Station.

Charles Gruenewald, president of the fire board, also stressed the importance of the school and urged that as many volunteer firemen as possible attend the sessions.

Alderman Dorr E. Monroe of the Eighth ward, Superintendent Ernest Steuding of the Board of Public Works, and H. L. Van Deusen were the other speakers of the evening.

Officers Elected

In addition to electing Mr. Bunse president the fire company elected the following other officers:

Vice president, William Pardee. Treasurer, Charles Bunse. Recording secretary, Richard Hinkley. Financial secretary, Henry F. Kelsch. Foreman, Bernard Coughlin. First assistant foreman, Charles Derrenbacher. Second assistant foreman, William Mohr. Steward, Jacob C. Port.

The company also elected John Mayer delegate to the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association; Fred W. Sudheimer delegate to the New York State Firemen's Association; George C. Kirchner delegate to the Kingston Fire Fund Association; Augustus Bunse and Walter Albright delegates to the Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association; executive committee for three years, George C. Kirchner and Walter Albright; finance committee, Charles Derrenbacher, Walter Albright and William Pardee.

The meeting last evening was the 77th annual meeting of Rapid Hose Company, and was one of the most successful meetings in the history of the organization.

To Broadcast

The Sunday morning service in the First Dutch Church will be broadcast over Station WKNY. The Rev. Arthur Oudemool, pastor, will preach on the topic, "What Do Ye More Than Others?" and the church choir will sing.

Two Women Hurt As Cars Collide

Mrs. John Stahl of 277 Flatbush avenue and Mrs. Homer Carter of 77 Stephan street were injured, but not seriously, when two automobiles collided shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday evening at the intersection of O'Neil street and Smith avenue.

Both women were removed to the Kingston Hospital by Officers Barmann and Schoonmaker in one of the police radio cars where they remained overnight. At the hospital this morning it was stated that both women planned to return to their homes this afternoon.

Mrs. Stahl received lacerations of the forehead, while Mrs. Carter was bruised about the body.

According to the police report the cars driven by John Stahl of 277 Flatbush avenue and Clifford E. Watson of New Haven, Conn., collided at the street intersection.

To Preach on Air

Next week's morning devotion services over Station WKNY will be in charge of the Rev. William J. McVey, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Services will commence Monday at 8:30 a. m. and continue through Friday. On Saturday the Rev. Mr. McVey will teach the international Bible school lesson at the same time.

Seeley Succeeds Holcomb on Board board consist of a layman and a physician representing both the Benedictine and Kingston Hospitals, and a physician representing the County Tuberculosis Hospital is being worked out.

The board now is comprised of the Rev. William H. Kennedy and Dr. Fred Voss, representing the Benedictine Hospital, and the Rev. Frank B. Seeley and Dr. Fred Snyder representing the Kingston Hospital, and Dr. Joseph Jacobson, representing the staff of the County Tuberculosis Hospital.

The mayor praised Dr. Holcomb, who was one of the founders of the local laboratory system and who, the mayor said, rendered distinguished service to the laboratory since it was created in 1934. It also was said that the plan of hospital representation on the laboratory board had been worked out with the approval of Dr. Holcomb.

The man with the most decided opinions has usually had the least experience.

elixir of Jade

The Chinese once concocted what they called the "divine liqueur of Jade," with equal parts jade, rice, and dew-water, boiled in a copper pot and filtered. This elixir was believed to calm the mind, enrich the body, and prevent suffering either from heat or cold.

Prehistoric man used jade to fashion implements. Because it produces a melodious sound when struck, oblong pieces have been made into chimes.

Chief sources of supply now are Turkistan and New Zealand.

Jade is an exquisite ornament for women of striking appearance.
